MR. and MRS. RICHARD A. ROSS

We, the class of 1955, wish to dedicate our yearbook to Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Ross, hoping in this small way to show our deep appreciation of their enthusiastic and generous interest in our school. In their personalities we found an inspiring mixture of understanding, patience, and humor. Their novel ideas and long hours of work resulted in lively and successful activities. Always quick to offer good suggestions and wise council, they encouraged us to be more creative and original. They understood that encouragement is creative.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

To the CLASS of 1955:

As you leave these classrooms to find your divided ways leading into various fields of endeavor, I suggest that you survey the scene about you and make careful inventory of values.

We are in grave danger today of letting slip from our hearts and minds the fundamental faith and fortitude of our founding fathers. The pioneering spirit of "dare and do" that made our country strong and great is too much a matter of history alone and not enough in way of current practice.

A democratic society has been here established at too great a price and sacrifice to be sabotaged now from within our own ranks or to be stolen from us by bandit nations.

Said John Stuart Mill several generations ago in words still true at this very day and hour:

"A people may prefer a free government, but if, from indolence, or carelessness, or cowardice, or want of public spirit, they are unequal to the exertion necessary for preserving it . . . they are unlikely long to enjoy it."

Do not delay, Class of 1955, in taking your place among those determined to defend and promote the qualities of dignity, strength, and virtue in these United States of America.

Best wishes for continuing years of happiness and well-being.

This year the Class of 1955, looking for something original, decided to depart from past traditions and to publish a new and completely different type of yearbook. This is the result.

Many people have contributed to the content and production; to them we give our whole-hearted appreciation. Mr. Mark Robinson, Mr. Francis J. DiSabatino, and Mr. Leslie J. Reed were of great help in the perfection of our photographs.

All members of the staff have given unselfishly of their afternoons and vacations, but this book would not have been possible without the complete cooperation and financial support of Mr. Frederick A. Small, our principal; the faculty, and the student body.

Above all, we wish to thank Mrs. James W. Vose, our yearbook advisor, for her many helpful suggestions which have served to make the Ship-builder of 1955 a better book.

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1951, we the Class of '55 entered into the new and memorable life of the high school student, nick-named "the frightened little freshmen" by our upperclassmen. But as the year progressed, we proved that we had what it takes to be called the most industrious, most ingenious, and most likely to be remembered class to ever graduate from Norwell High School.

Despite the fact that several classmates from our junior high school days were among the missing, we still boasted the largest class in the high school. Mary Sweeney and Irene Wells joined our ranks respectively, only to leave us at later dates. At the Freshman Initiation Dance we were welcomed to this new life by the Senior class, the faculty, the whole student body, and Alan Dary, a prominent disc-jockey.

Following our initiation we fell with vigor and enthusiasm into the continual round of studies until graduation. At this time we diverted some of our attention to the exercises at the Annual Banquet held on Class Night. Foremost in our minds were the toasts to the Sophomores and the challenge of centerpieces.

Van Elliott proved to be an excellent toastmaster and under the capable direction of Joyce Gilmour our centerpiece, "The Wheel of Fortune" complete with music, and a picture of each Freshman on the face of the wheel, we deservingly won first prize.

Summer vacation came and went; we were Sophomores. With sunburned noses and freckled faces, we stepped back into the roll of the hard working student.

As the year moved along, we welcomed three new classmates, petite Sandra Litchfield; the little Irish girl, Marilyn O'Donnell; and the indescribable James Brown, all of whom have proved, faithful to us to the bitter end.

Soon it came time for us to try our hand at a high school dance. After much preparation we came forth with the not too successful Sophomore Hop.

Again we proved our superiority in creation at the Annual Banquet at Class Night, with our second winning centerpiece, an interpretation of Holland, with a windmill, little Dutch boys and girls, and even sand bags for dikes.

The remaining days of our Sophomore year were spent burning the midnight oil and taking stiff examinations. Then the doors of our beloved high school opened and released us until the following September.

During the course of our Junior year, five new students wisely chose to move to our town, and today, Barbara MacKenzie, Judith McCausland, Vita Maglio, Frederick Hart, and Sidney Johnson comprise an important part of our class.

That fall we tried our hand at a dance, this time a square dance. Hard work and careful planning made the night a huge success.

When spring rolled around and Prom Season came into view, we were ready, willing, and able to provide the most beautifully decorated hall, a very capable orchestra, and a night to be remembered by all.

The theme of the 1954 centerpieces at the Annual Banquet was nursery rhymes. We won our third consecutive award with the superb characterization of Mother Goose.

In the fall of that same year, we "crept unwillingly" back into the now familiar rooms for our last and unforgettable year of public school instruction. Here we found Doreen Glover our only new classmate and we set about making her feel at home.

We welcomed each Freshman to the new life of a high school student with the Freshman Initiation Dance, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

The time came for us to leave our mark on the history of our school. We introduced the college form yearbook. Eagerly we worked to finance, to put together and to perfect the most complete Shipbuilder ever to appear in Norwell High School.

Yes, we are Seniors, full of hopes and visions. We are anxious for graduation day, and yet a little afraid, for we realize that even though we are the oldest and most experienced in the matters of a high school student, after June of '55, we will be the youngest and most inexperienced in the new life ahead of us.

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to you, our instructors, for your careful guidance and capable leadership from our entrance into the first grade through the twelfth grade, for it is you who have made us ready to meet any challenge the future may bring!
